Ne sudite

Isus ovih nedjelja koristi primjere iz života kako bi ljudima prikazao Boga u pravom svijetlu. On je gospodar koji daje smokvi "second chance", još jednu priliku, još jednu godinu, on je otac koji oprašta sinu i za njegov povratak priprema feštu, on je Krist koji kaže: "Tko je od vas bez grijeha neka na ovu ženu prvi baci kamen." Njegov govor u parabolama jest jednostavno govor ljubavi. Isus je svojim suvremenicima govorio jednostavnim jezikom priča, jezikom kojim će oni razumjeti ljubav. Drugim riječima, ako ja ne osuđujem ovu ženu, onda je nemate pravo ni vi osuđivati. Ljudi su skloni suditi ljude, upirati prstom jedni u druge, prokazivati druge i govoriti o njima. Krist upozorava na to i nudi ljudima bolju stvarnost: oproštenje, bezuvjetno oproštenje. Oprostiti može samo ljubav, samo oni koji vas vole, samo oni kojima je više stalo do vas, nego do vašeg grijeha. Ravnati se po ljubavi i iskusiti oproštenje mora nam biti ispred osuđivanja i govora o drugima. Čovjek je rođen za ljubav, a oproštenje je sastavni dio njena postojanja.

Prodigal son (2)

In the Jewish tradition there is a story about a father who had a violent argument with his son. In the heat of anger, the son left home to live in a distant land. After the father's rage had run its course, he missed his son deeply. He called in his servant and told him to travel to the faraway place where his son lived, and ask him to return home. The servant made the journey, found the son, and told him that his father loved him and wanted him to come back. The son replied, "Tell my father that I cannot come back. It is too far." The servant returned to the father and told him the discouraging news. The father pondered his son's response and later called in his servant. He told him, "Go back again and talk to my son. Tell him to come back as far as he can, and I will come the rest of the way." No matter how distant we are from God, He always gives us a way back. We come as far as we can, and God comes the rest of the way. When God touches us in our sinfulness, which is inherent in the human condition, we call it forgiveness. Forgiveness is the love that God gives unconditionally. We saw it last Sunday in the story of the Prodigal Son, and we see it today in the story about a woman caught in adultery. The heart of God is greater than our sins. It is open to our return.

Divine Reward

People who can forgive offenses, studies find, have better emotional health than those who nurse grudges, a habit that is tied to high anxiety and low self-esteem. It is interesting how all Christian virtues help people to live happier, better, less stressed lives ....
