WEEKLY MEDITATION for the Fourth Sunday in Lent

Jesus' parable of the Prodigal Son is a story about hearts: selfish hearts and generous hearts, closed hearts and open hearts, cold hearts and warm hearts, broken hearts and joyful hearts, unre-and grateful hearts. It reveals much about the vagaries of the human heart.

When all is said and done, the heart matters profoundly. The spiritual heart is what I am deep down. It is the real me. Darkness of heart is the blackest night of all. Emptiness of heart is the greatest poverty of all. A heavy heart is a wearisome burden. A broken heart is a deep wound.

But this parable reveals how steadfast is the heart of God. God never closes his heart to anyone. No matter how far from home we may wander and no matter what we may have done, if we come home to God, he will welcome us with love and joy!

WISDOM'S CORNER

Love him all the more

The great leader of India, Mahatmas Gandhi tells of the time when he was 15 years old and stole a little piece of gold from his brother. But, he felt so bad about it that he made up his mind to confess it to his father.

He wrote out his sin on a piece of paper, asking for forgiveness and punishment, while promising never to steal again.

At the time this happened, his father was sick in bed. Gandhi handed him the note and sat by the bedside waiting for his father's judgment. His father sat up in bed and began to read the note. As he read it, tears came into his eyes. Gandhi himself also cried.

Instead of getting angry and punishing him, the father hugged his repentant son, and that was the end of the matter. The experience of being loved while he was in sin had a profound effect on Gandhi.

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK

"When a parent laments that his child has taken to evil ways, what should he do?

Love him all the more."

Dear friends,

the Prodigal Son. This text about forgiveness, family relationships, envy, jealousy... I don't know how you see this text, but it is very powerful. When we read it, we can ask ourselves: With which of these figures can we identify ourselves? Let us consider the profligate son who left his family home — who didn't care much about anyone's feelings or opinions; he was interested only in himself. He knew only his needs. After a while, when he lost everything, including himself. When he reached rock bottom, the text gives us one of the most beautiful descriptions of the human condition, saying "Then he came to his senses." He turned around and changed his life. To "come to our senses" means to realize who we truly are. When we reach rock bottom, when we connect with the depths of our soul, then real change takes place. Our perspectives, our worldview, our present and future all change. Then we see what we had, what we lost. Then we can see ourselves in a near-perfect mirror, without lies, without deception or masks. Only then, without difficulty we can say, "I am sorry, I made a mistake, I messed up. I desire to start again." When a person connects with the depths of his or her soul, that person can become unconditionally sincere, following the path of truth. To come to our senses means not to be divided within ourselves anymore, to know ourselves so well that we will never protect our false ego.

Sr. Alma Dujmic, R.I.P.

It has come to our attention that a longtime schoolteacher at St. Jerome's, Sr. Alma Dujmic, ASC, passed away last May 26, at the age of 92. A beautiful person, she died peacefully in the Columbia, Pa., sisters retirement community where she had been since 2002. Sr. Alma was born in Steelton, Pa., to Matthew & Barbara (nee Bekelja) Dujmic. She joined the Adorers of the Precious Blood of Christ in 1939, and was a sister in this religious family for more than 75 years. Sr. Alma was a teacher for 53 years, 48 in elementary schools and 5 in high school as an English teacher, teaching in Georgia, Indiana, Ohio, Missouri, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, and for many years at our St. Jerome School, which the Precious Blood Sisters staffed through most of its existence since 1922. Sr. Alma was also a gifted art teacher. She made her mark on many souls.

May her soul and the souls of all the faithful departed rest in God's peace!
