5TH SUNDAY OF LENT

Have you ever come up with what you thought was a great plan or idea, and decided to share it with friends or loved ones? Isn't it almost a sure bet that someone will think of all the reasons your idea won't work, and almost take delight in telling you so? In such instances, you set yourself apart from the rest when you keep going. Remember, everyone told Wilbur and Orville Wright that they didn't stand a chance in getting that thing off the ground!

How frustrating it must have been for Jesus to announce to his disciples that he was going to Bethany to "awaken Lazarus from his sleep," only to have his closest friends tell him it was too dangerous. Despite their protestations, he calmly explained that his mission was of a grander importance. And even with this explanation, our friend Thomas replied that if Jesus was going to die, they might as well all go die with him!

One of the cornerstones of our faith is the belief in the resurrection. Jesus himself proclaims that he is the resurrection and the life; in order to display this more clearly, he restores his friend Lazarus to life. Death, the ultimate boundary to be crossed, is now, through Jesus, removed of all its sting and darkness. Jesus is the Lord of life for all who believe. No matter what death brings, it will not endure, for Jesus has overcome death. Anyone who believes will share in that eternal life. On this fifth Sunday of Lent, we are called to look once and for all to Jesus' death and resurrection and his ultimate promise to us that if we believe, we too shall be brought from the darkness into new life with Christ.

5. KORIZMENA NEDJELJA

Ova nas korizmena nedjelja približava Velikom tjednu i stoga je tema potpuno jasna: smrt vodi do uskrsnuća. Postoje trenutci kada naša srca i naše misli razmišljaju o kraju života i pitaju se postoji li išta nakon toga, bez obzira što nam vjera govori o životu Isusa Krista.

Važno je zapaziti da prvo čitanje, iz proroka Ezekijela, 600 godina prije Isusa, govori o uskrsnuću. Prorok govori o novom duhu koji će se spustiti na prognanike kada se vrate u Svetu zemlju, u njihovu obećanu zemlju. Ali razvitak jezika uskrsnuća omogućuje i razvoj razumijevanja uskrsnuća.

Ne vjerujemo samo mi kršćani da postoji život nakon smrti. Mi samo imamo jasno učenje koje kaže da je život poslije smrti Božji dar a ne nešto što sami zaslužujemo. Mora nam biti jasno da nas spašava vjera u Isusa Krista, izražena u našoj ljubavi prema Bogu i bližnjima. Ta je stvarnost izražena na dva načina: vjerom u Boga i ljubavlju prema Bogu i bližnjima. U evanđelju vidimo kako Isus odlučuje vratiti Lazara od mrtvih. Najbolje je za ovaj događaj koristiti riječ "vratiti iz mrtvih" radije negoli riječ "uskrsenje" jer nakon ovog "povratka u život" Lazar najvjerojatnije vodi normalan život i onda ponovno umire. Trebamo se sjetiti i drugih "uskrsnih" događaja u evanđelju, kao što je uskrsnuće sina jedne udovice i uskrsnuće Jairove kćeri. To su neke vrste "uskrsenja" za kojima čeznemo kada umre netko koga volimo, osobito ako je to netko mlad.

Uskrsnuće je drugačija stvarnost koju možemo početi razumijevati razmišljajući o "povratku iz mrtvih". Ako se neka osoba može vratiti u život nakon što je bila stvarno mrtva (osobito ako je poput Lazara bila 4 dana u grobu) onda moramo shvatiti da postoji neka moć nad životom i smrću. Shvaćamo da smrt nema konačnu riječ u našem životu.

Poslanica Rimljanima, koju nam donosi drugo čitanje, govori da ćemo, ako u nama prebiva Duh Isusa Krista, uskrsnuti od mrtvih. Danas razmišljamo o potrebi da Duh Isusa Krista treba prebivati u nama sada. I kako je prorok Ezekijel mogao osjetiti da novi duh dolazi na narod koji se vraća iz izbjeglištva, tako i mi koji vjerujemo moramo sada imati iskustvo uskrsnuća. Naši se životi počinju mijenjati kada počnemo slijediti našega Gospodina.

Znakovi življenja i vjerovanja u uskrsnuće su ljubav prema Bogu i bližnjima. Mi također vjerujemo u otpuštenje grijeha i sposobnost opraštanja onima koji su sagriješili protiv nas.

BLESSED JOHN XXIII - A POPE OF THE PEOPLE

It's fitting that the plan to canonize Bl. John XXIII was announced during the 50th anniversary year of the opening of Vatican II. By calling the Council, he set in motion a 4-year process that addressed the relation between the Church and the modern world, and ushered in greater accessibility within the faith as well as greater ecumenism towards other world religions.

Upon his election to the papacy, John became the first pope in almost 100 years to make pastoral visits around his home diocese of Rome. He visited the sick and infirm, and when he visited a prison, he announced to those incarcerated, "You could not come to me, so I came to you."

John was a tireless advocate for peace. He knew that lasting peace could never come about without courageous leaders willing to stand against evil. Before becoming pope, as Bishop Angelo Roncalli, he assisted Jewish refugees and other endangered groups in their attempts to flee the Nazis. Later, as pope, he called all mankind to work for peace through civil dialogue and respect for human rights.

At the opening of his encyclical, Pacem in Terris, John writes, "Peace on earth — which man throughout the ages has so longed for and sought after — can never be established, never guaranteed, except by the diligent observance of the divinely established order." Then later he writes: "May Christ inflame the desires of all men to break through the barriers that divide them, to strengthen the bonds of mutual love, to learn to understand one another, and to pardon those who have done them wrong."

John XXIII also knew that a desire for peace required tremendous introspection in order to correct personal and institutional faults. He repented on behalf of Catholics for the sin of anti-Semitism that existed throughout Europe and elsewhere.

John XXIII canonized several saints, including Martin de Porres, Juan de Ribera, and Maria Bertilla Boscardin. In 1959, he beatified Marie Marguerite d'Youville, who founded the Sisters of Charity of Montreal and would later become the first Canadian elevated to sainthood when John Paul II canonized her in 1990.

On October 11, 1962, at the end of the opening day of the Second Vatican Council, the people of Rome gathered in St. Peter's Square and chanted for John to appear. He came forth and gave his now famous impromptu "Speech to the Moon." He spoke in his typical down-to-earth, fatherly manner and said: "All the world is represented here tonight. It could even be said that even the moon hastens close tonight, that from above, it might watch this spectacle that not even St. Peter's Basilica, over its 4 centuries of history, has ever been able to witness." Then later he said, "When you head home, find your children. Hug and kiss your children and tell them: 'This is the hug and kiss of the pope.'"

He came to be known as "Good Pope John," and upon his death some of the Cardinals of the Second Vatican Council wanted to canonize him immediately. However, it wasn't until September 3, 2000, that he was finally beatified by John Paul II, and since then numerous reports have been made about miracles, graces and favors due to his intercession. Though only one miracle has been officially confirmed, Pope Francis has decided to waive the usual two miracles necessary for canonization. This is not unprecedented and perfectly in keeping with canon law. Blessed John XXIII will be canonized, with Blessed John Paul II, on Sunday, April 27. Pope Francis simply wishes to recognize the holiness of the great pope of the Second Vatican Council.
